

Says Kennedy Plays Politics on Rights Issue

WASHINGTON (AP)—A teamsters Union official said today that Robert F. Kennedy has designed the administration's civil rights program for his "personal desires and ambitions."

Sidney Zagari, legislative counsel for the union, said the entire program is intended to help President Kennedy win re-election. He called for Robert Kennedy to resign as attorney general.

Zagari's prepared testimony before a House subcommittee was principally criticism of the attorney general, long a foe of Teamsters President James R. Hoffa.

Three churchmen supporting the program said segregation is immoral and "racism is blasphemy against God." They represented Protestant, Roman Catholic and Jewish groups.

Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, spokesman for the trio, told a House Judiciary subcommittee in prepared testimony that "we are in the midst of a social revolution. Please God it will remain a social revolution and not degenerate into civil chaos."

He urged Congress to act now to pass President Kennedy's civil rights program.

Dr. Blake, chief executive officer of the United Presbyterian Church who was arrested earlier this month in a Maryland anti-segregation demonstration, appeared with the Rev. John F. Cronin, an official of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, and Rabbi Irwin M. Blank of the Synagogue Council of America.

The subcommittee was one of three congressional groups hearing testimony today favoring the President's broad program to outlaw segregation in all major areas of public life.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, in his fourth trip to Congress in behalf of the legislation, went before the Senate Judiciary Committee where he faced a hostile audience of Southern senators headed by Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss.

Erwin N. Griswold, member of the U.S. Civil Rights Commission and dean of the Howard Law School, told the Senate Commerce Committee in prepared testimony that the administration bill to outlaw segregation in public accommodations is "the most important issue facing this Congress."

Griswold said widespread demonstrations stemming from the denial to Negroes of access to restaurants, hotels and other places of public accommodations "has challenged our ability to govern ourselves through the peaceful and orderly processes of law."

The three religious leaders will testify before two other committees Thursday.

Win Awards at State Convention

THESE MEMBERS OF THE LOCAL AMERICAN Legion Auxiliary won awards last week at a meeting of the state association at El Dorado.

DIFFICULT JOB — Policewomen have their jobs made more difficult by sit-down pickets who link arms at the entrance to Rutgers Houses a housing development in New York's lower Manhattan. About 26 pickets were taken into custody for staging a traffic-blocking demonstration.

At the same time a larger demonstration by another group of civil rights pickets was under way at the Downtown Medical Center in Brooklyn. Both groups were protesting alleged bias in the construction industry in New York.

GOING IN, NOT OUT — This school bus which seems to be emerging from a garage, is not. The bus rolled backward 290 feet on the Batesville (Ark.) High School campus and knocked a sizable hole in the vocational agriculture building.

Lesson on How to Handle Signs

NORTH LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Three North Little Rock teenagers got a lesson Tuesday on how to handle—and wear—signs.

Municipal Judge Milton McLees ordered the three, charged with malicious mischief after a spree of pulling up house address markers, to wear placards reading, "I am learning to respect the property of others" while they replaced the markers.

Negro Crushed

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

STAR CITY, Ark. (AP)—Ira McKinzie, 28, a Negro of Star City, was killed in a logging accident seven miles south of Star City Tuesday. Lincoln County Coroner Grant Griffin told a tree that McKinzie had cut fell on him and crushed him. The body was found by Robert Hase of Star City, also a Negro, who was working in the area with McKinzie.

Picketing Negroes Ask for More Jobs

By RALEIGH ALLSBROOK

NEW YORK (AP)—Negro and white pickets lay in a muddy street with locked arms today in an effort to prevent supply trucks from entering a Brooklyn construction project.

They were seeking more building trade jobs for Negroes and Puerto Ricans.

Police arrested 12 pickets, five of them women, in the demonstration at the Downtown Medical Center and placed them in patrol wagons.

State Air Units Enter Competition

WASHINGTON (AP)—The 154th Tactical Reconnaissance Squadron of the Arkansas Air National Guard will compete with four other units Sept. 3-8 at Shaw Air Force Base, S.C., for the Air Force Association's Hicks Trophy.

The winning unit will be a guest Sept. 14-15 in Washington at the annual AFA convention.

Each competing unit will make two flights over a three-day period to photograph a target. Judging will be on preflight procedures, quality of photography, processing of prints and photo interpretation.

Workers Laid Off

CONWAY, Ark. (AP)—Forty three of the 250 workers at the Virco Manufacturing Co. have been laid off because of a lack of sales. J. S. Mattingly Jr., superintendent, said Tuesday. Mattingly said the plant would cut production and liquidate some of its stock, but it would require about 90 days to absorb stock on hand.

Harris Appeals for Time in Railway Strike

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chairman Oren Harris, D-Ark., of the House Commerce Committee, asked the nation's railroads today to hold up for another 30 days the new work rules they propose to put into effect at 12:01 a.m. Tuesday.

He said Congress could not enact legislation to avert a strike by that time.

Harris asked for an answer within 24 hours.

He addressed his request to Daniel P. Loomis, president of the Association of American Railroads, as Harris' committee opened hearings on President Kennedy's plan to have the Interstate Commerce Commission consider work rules for train crewmen.

Loomis said he couldn't give a yes or no answer but that the railroads would consider the appeal.

Railroad management has endorsed the Kennedy proposal to put the controversy before the ICC, but there is union opposition.

H.E. Gilbert, head of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, told a news conference in St. Louis this morning that the five unions involved are all opposed.

"Such action would set the interstate commerce commission up as a labor court," he said. "This would be only the first step. We would wind up with labor courts throughout the country. I've seen labor courts in action. They are not a good thing."

A spokesman here for the five brotherhoods told newsmen he doubted there would be any formal group statement on the Kennedy proposal until union representatives testify before senate and house committees.

Loomis went on to say another postponement would rain off more of "the life blood of an anemic industry."

"We've already been delayed, and this has continued for some four years," Loomis said.

The railroads contend that forced employment of unneeded

Auxiliary of Legion Wins State Honors

Representing Leslie Huddleston Unit No. 12, American Legion Auxiliary of Hope, all the State Convention in El Dorado last week were Mrs. E. F. Formby, alternate National Executive Committee woman, State Civil Defense Chairman and local Poppy Chairman.

Others included, Mrs. Joe Jones, vice-president of the Western Division and local Junior Activities Chairman; Mrs. Thomas L. Compton, President elect of the 12th District and Mrs. Olan State Chairman and Mrs. Olan Reeves, Historian-elect of the local unit.

Again this year the Hope unit received more awards than any of the other 157 units in Arkansas. Some 41 plaques are awarded annually for the most outstanding work accomplished. Under the leadership of Mrs. Frank King, president, six of the plaques were won by the following Hope committee chairmen:

Radio and Television—Mrs. J. W. Branch.

Civil Defense—Mrs. Victor Cobb.

Publicity—Mrs. R. D. Haynes.

Poppy sales—Mrs. E. F. Formby.

Junior Activities—Mrs. Joe Jones.

Historians—Mrs. Charles E. Taylor.

Mrs. Taylor also received a citation for the Hope Unit for exceeding its membership quota.

The plaques will be displayed at the Hope Chamber of Commerce office.

Hope's Mack McLarty, Governor of Boy's State, was a speaker on the convention program.

Miss Kitty Reeves, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Olan Reeves, won first place for being the most outstanding Miss Poppy in Arkansas.

She appeared in costume at the Saturday conference and took part in the parade.

Tim White, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hulan White, won first place in the State Poppy Poster contest and his entry will be in the National contest.

Other Junior members attending the convention were Cookie Jones, Dianne Ellis and Vickie Lynn Reeves. Miss Jones and Miss Ellis joined members of Girls' state in singing at the convention and all took part in the parade.

Young Prostitute Tells of Payoff to Ward Following Sex Orgies in His Apartment

By HAL COOPER

LONDON (AP)—A slim, young prostitute told the jury in the vice trial of Dr. Stephen Ward today that Ward collected money for her service both in normal sexual intercourse and for whipping male pervers.

Vicky Barrett, 20, said the goings-on took place in the society osteopath's London apartment over a period of 2½ months in 1961.

Testifying in the third day of the trial in Old Bailey criminal court, Miss Barrett said she estimated Ward collected 5 pounds ($14) a time for intercourse and 1 pound ($2.80) for every stroke of cane or horsewhip she wielded on the nude bodies of other clients.

Justice Sir Archie Marshall interjected a question about the whipping.

"During this time, how were you dressed?" he asked.

"In underwear and high-heeled shoes."

The girl never dodged questions. She said she was a convicted prostitute whom Ward had picked up repeatedly.

The witness testified that Ward told her he was being paid, but was keeping the money so she could get a better apartment and better clothes and then charge higher prices.

Ward, 50, the son of an Anglican clergyman, sat woodenly in the face of her testimony. The prosecution is attempting to prove its charge that Ward lived off the earnings of prostitutes.

Prosecutor Mervyn Griffith-Jones regarded this witness as his ace in probing a sex-and-security scandal that has jolted Britain's government and he made the most of it.

The second line of the chorus took over after the opening Monday and Tuesday, featured by the testimony of party girls Christine Keeler, 21, and Marilyn (Mandy) Rice-Davies, 18, who tossed about the names of former War Minister John D. Profumo, Lord Astor, and Douglas Fairbanks Jr.

Another prosecution witness insisted she had committed perjury at Ward's preliminary hearing, testifying police had threatened to take her young sister and her baby from her unless she provided evidence against Ward.

Margaret Ricardo, 22, an admitted prostitute, repeated her assertion—first made at the close of Tuesday's session—that she lied on the stand at Ward's preliminary hearing and in a statement to the police because of police pressure.

Under questioning from prosecutor Mervyn Griffith-Jones she admitted that she voluntarily gave an additional true statement to the police on April 10 about her sister, Dorothy Richardson, 13, another girl named Diane and Ward.

The substance of this statement, which Miss Ricardo insisted was true—was not immediately disclosed.

Griffith-Jones asked her why, if the police previously had forced her into signing false statements, she had volunteered fresh information on April 10.

"I did not want my sister to go to a remand home," Miss Ricardo replied. Remand homes are places where underage defendants in criminal or delinquency cases are kept.

Miss Ricardo added she was afraid her brother would be arrested.

rested as well. She said the brother was in fact jailed soon after on pimping charges.

Miss Ricardo again disavowed her testimony to the police and at the preliminary hearing that she used Ward's apartment on three occasions for sexual relations with men who paid her.

She testified that the only time she ever had intercourse at Ward's apartment was with a boy friend named "Silky" Hawkins and that she did not charge him. Tuesday she testified that Ward and a girl were similarly occupied in the room at the time.

Douglas Fairbanks Jr., denied the testimony Tuesday by call girl Marilyn (Mandy) Rice-Davies that he had sexual relations with her.

The baby-faced little 18-year-old admitted to the packed courtroom she brought the name of the former actor and television producer into the case "because I didn't like him."

She had testified that Fairbanks was one of several men she had sexual relations with during three months in 1961 when she shared an apartment with Christine Keeler, leading lady in the Profumo scandal who the prosecution charges was o-star with Mandy in a call girl stable operated by Ward. Mandy said Fairbanks didn't pay her.

Fairbanks, now 53, a resident of London since the war and a friend of Britain's royal family, issued his denial through a spokesman in New York. British law bars him from commenting on the case in London while it is still in the courts.

Army to Study the White River

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Army Engineers announced Tuesday they were ready to begin a comprehensive, five-year study of the White River and its tributaries.

Purpose of the survey, requested by the 1962 Congress, is to determine the best use of water and related land resources.

Col. Charles D. Maynard, Little Rock district engineer, said state agencies would be asked to cooperate in the study.

The entire project may be headed by a regional committee consisting of a representative from the Army Engineers, Agriculture, Interior, Health education and Welfare departments, Federal Power Commission and the states of Arkansas and Missouri, he said.

The report would compare various plans submitted for the free-flowing Buffalo River, a tributary of the White.

These include making it a national river, various proposals for dams, small impoundments and pump storage reservoirs.

Other tributaries to be included in the study are the Black, Current Spring, Little Red, Cache Strawberry and Eleven Point.

Bids on Dam

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Nabholz Construction Co. of Conway is apparent low bidder, at $581,346 on construction of an upstream approach wall for the Dardanelle Lock and Dam. The wall will guide boats approaching the locks from the west. It will be 600 feet long, 20 feet high and eight feet wide. The bid was submitted to the Little Rock District of Army Engineers.

Treaty Held Up But Signing May Be Thurs.

By PRESTON GROVER

MOSCOW (AP)—After nearly a whole day of negotiations, the nuclear test ban treaty was reported completed today and probably will be initiated Thursday.

Efforts to get the agreement today apparently were held up by prolonged discussions over the nonaggression pact wanted by the Russians but which cannot be negotiated by the British and American delegations here.

Earlier, Premier Khrushchev said a "racial turn toward a better international climate" could result from signing the agreement.

But Khrushchev, as quoted by Tass, again tied the test ban closely to a nonaggression pact between NATO and the Communist bloc. He did not, however, specifically say the world could not have one without the other.

The premier's views were in a letter to the heads of state of the 30 African countries which took part in the Addis Ababa conference in May.

Tass distributed it around the world just as American, British and Soviet delegates were holding a hard working session at Spiridonovsk Palace.

Western representatives had an urgent telephone call from the Soviet Foreign Ministry just before they went to the session.

Western diplomats were still hopeful the agreement could be signed today, but they cautioned newsmen there could be a slip.

It could not be learned what last minute problem the Russians had raised. But the treaty draft was reported not yet complete for signing.

An air of happy triumph among the Western delegations Tuesday was modified this morning. But confidence continued that a test ban treaty would be concluded.

Thinks Boys Show More Initiative

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy, in obvious reference to the wrangling at the Governors' Conference in Miami Beach, Fla., over civil rights, told 100 boy "senators" today that they show more initiative in some ways than the governors.

He spoke to the youngsters, delegates to the annual Boys' Nation meeting, in the White House flower garden.

Both Federalist and Nationalist parties in the election held by the boys Tuesday had strong civil rights planks in their platforms.

In his brief remarks to the group, Kennedy jested about the closeness of his own election.

Congratulating Richard J. Stratton, 17, of Leland, Ill., on his landslide victory for the presidency of Boys' Nation, Kennedy said there are some candidates who just "skipped by."

Boys' Nation is sponsored by The American Legion. Its purpose is to study the operations of the national government. Each state except Alaska and Hawaii is represented by two senators. The District of Columbia and the Panama Canal Zone also have two senators each.

Phil Sutton, 65, Dies Tuesday, at His Home

Phil H. Sutton, aged 65, a lifelong resident of Hempstead and Nevada counties, died Tuesday at his home. Mr. Sutton was found dead in a field near his home. Death was due to a heart attack.

Survivors include his wife, two daughters, Jeanette Sutton of El Paso, Texas and Mrs. Austin Hulse of Hope; two brothers, Claude and Carter Sutton, both of Hope.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a. m. Thursday at Harmony Church, near Sutton. Burial by Herndon-Cornelius will be in Harmony Cemetery.

A Short Short Story

© 1963 by NEA, Inc.

THE RAGGED CIRCLE

By ED LACY

Understand, I'm not really a criminal. A petty thief, perhaps, but definitely not a criminal. And I haven't done any actual stealing for years. You see, with me it's all in my mind—truly.

I've been a kleptomaniac since I was a kid. The head shrinkers have explained it all to me several times—I was insecure as a child, and all that. Maybe it's all so.

Actually I've had myself under control pretty much now for the last dozen years. At one time my folks had a standing monthly bill at the five and dime store for all the stuff I lifted. Even though I haven't stolen anything recently, like the victims of all compulsive habits—I'm still tempted. And it hits you in odd ways.

Like today I had this important appointment to see this buyer in his hotel room. Strictly business and a real opportunity for me if I can deliver. There's this cigar stand in the lobby and on the counter a box of small Empire State statues. Neat and gaudy little pieces of junk selling for 25 cents.

You see how a klepto's mind runs? All the time I'm up in this buyer's room selling him a $2500 order—with possible larger reorders in the future—am I thinking this can be the turning point in my career? Am I dreaming of an upper bracket future? Frankly, all I can think is how simple it would be to steal one of those silly statues!

I haven't the smallest use for a statue but all the time I'm giving the buyer my sales pitch, the details on costs, delivery time, material, and so on, the back of my simple mind is thinking of those cheap statues.

I don't know how I ever closed the deal, but I did. Apparently the buyer wasn't hard to sell and I was so wrapped up in thinking about those little statues in the lobby that if he had given me any trouble, I might have given up and walked out on him.

Passing up a big order for a two-bit piece of junk! You couldn't understand it unless your brain was twisted like mine.

You see how a klepto's mind runs?

Even while I was making out the order, I kept planning for the big deal down stairs.

Be a snap to lift one. Merely buy a pack of cigarettes and give the old clerk behind the counter a $20 bill. Take him a few seconds to make change and while his back is turned—zowie!—shove one of the tiny Empire States up my overcoat sleeve. So simple! No chance of the counter man remembering me, ever seeing me again, the buyer is leaving town tonight.

It's crazy. Riding the elevator down, I'm hardly elated at making the biggest sale of my career. All I can think—and with mounting excitement—is that I'm going to steal a worthless statue! I haven't had the urge this strong in years, but it's on me like a tidal wave. I tell myself I'm a fool to take the chance—I have a good job, just turned a big deal, a sweet wife and kids. And all the time I know it's no use... I have to do it. I simply can't stop the desire to steal.

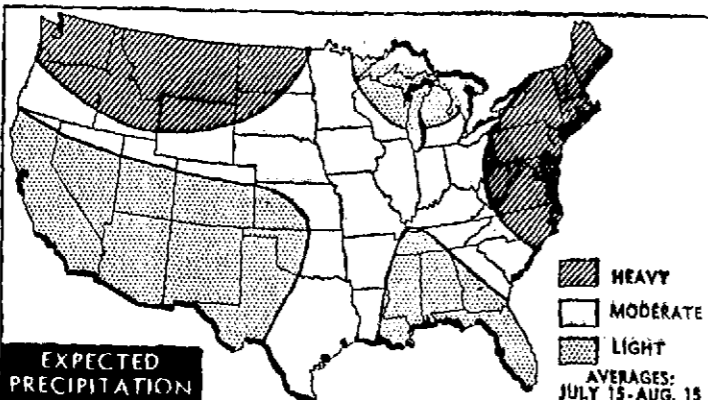

It was such a pushover there was no risk. The old counter man was slow, mentally and physically. Giving the pack of butts to me, he grumbled at the $20 I handed him, then turned his back for a long moment as he made change. I had one of the statues safely up my sleeve in a split second.

When he handed me my change, I shoved the bills and silver in my pocket, walked out fast. Oddly enough, the stealing didn't give me my usual charge, but only added up to a very minor and almost dull thrill.

But now I think I'm really cured! For when I reached the corner, tossed the statue into the nearest trash can, I took the bills out of my pocket and put them into my wallet.

And that dirty crook of an old man—why he short-changed me five bucks!

Fact of the Week

Ice is the solid form of water. Although practically colorless, ice often appears white as a result of imbedded air bubbles, and in large masses such as glaciers it takes on a blue or green tinge. Eighty-seven per cent of the earth's ice formations lie on the Antarctic continent.

sary workers is costing them millions of dollars a year.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, leadoff witness for the administration plan, sat puffing on his pipe as the chairman and the railroad official had their exchange.

Harris said he asked the railroads to postpone for 30 days their new, manpower trimming work rules to avert a national walkout. Rail unions have said they will strike the minute the rules are imposed.

Harris said he did not consider the request unreasonable and hoped the railroad would go along.

Loomis said the railroads have been trying to negotiate a work rules settlement for years and charged they are still being forced to make work where work is not performed.

Loomis said that has "become intolerable under present conditions."

Harris said that "after four years of discussions the work rules hassle was brought to the attention of Congress only day before yesterday."

Harris said it will take time for Congress to consider properly the "intriguing and unique proposal" President Kennedy has made.

Harris' plea was part of mounting congressional pressure for the railroads to delay putting in the new work rules.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen drafted a resolution aimed at keeping the trains running until Congress has time to act.

And various legislators of both parties voiced appeals that the railroads hold off on new work rules which a carriers' spokesman said Tuesday would go into effect at one minute after midnight next Tuesday as planned.

The five on-train unions have said in the past they will stage a massive walkout the moment the new rules—which would eliminate thousands of jobs—are posted.

Two congressional committees worked at full throttle on Presi-the city. Despite the new locked-arm tactics trucks were not delayed the dispute. Many committee members who indirectly called on the carriers Tuesday to give Congress more time to act thus will get a chance to make their appeal directly.

The House Commerce Committee begins its consideration of the administration proposal by hearing Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz who testified Tuesday before the Senate group.

One Senate source said the railroad brotherhoods have already launched a campaign against the bill, which calls for putting the dispute into the hands of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

In Cleveland Roy E. Davidson, grand chief engineer of the independent Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, said Tuesday he couldn't think of "a worse place than the ICC to refer the dispute to."

He charged that the ICC is "management-oriented and has no grasp of labor-management relationships and principles."

Railroad officials go before the Senate Commerce Committee today to voice their support for Kennedy's formula for handling in entering the site.

Picketing also resumed at the Rutgers housing construction site on the lower east side of Manhattan.

Eight demonstrators stayed overnight in Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's outer office in a campaign to increase job opportunities for Negroes and Puerto Ricans.

The Brooklyn site is one of two at which police arrested 140 pickets Tuesday.

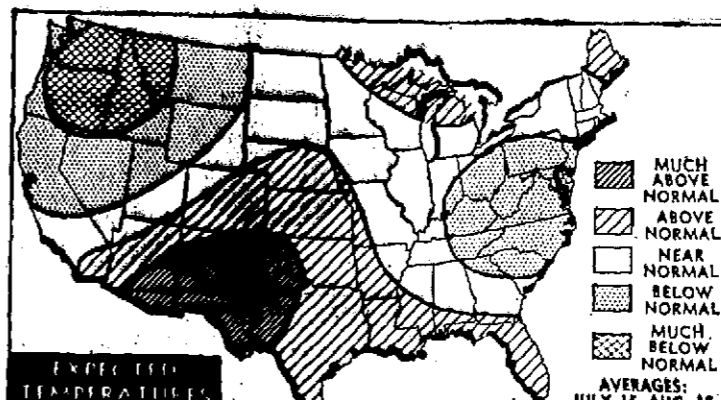

Pickets did not return today to the second site—a housing project in Queens.

As the Brooklyn demonstration began, 40 pickets walked slowly on a barricaded strip of sidewalk along one entrance to the new Downstate Medical Center. They carried placards and occasionally sang or chanted.

The pickets were divided almost evenly between whites and Negroes and between men and women.

Police today also had a reduced force at the scene—210 officers compared with some 300 Tuesday. Police arrested 116 pickets Tuesday when they blocked the entrance of construction supplies.

The Rev. Milton Galamison, one of the Negro demonstration leaders, said he did not expect too many pickets at the medical cen-

Picnic At Berry Faulkner

Mr. and Mrs. Berry Faulkner of DeAnn and children, Billy, Brenda, Jack and Vicky gave a picnic in the honor of Jack's 16th birthday and a farewell for Mrs. Faulkner's cousin, Hilda Willis Krueger of Greeley, Colo., who has been visiting relatives in DeAnn and at Hope.

The picnic was held on the spacious lawn at the Faulkner farm southeast of DeAnn Sunday, July 21.

Those enjoying the picnic were: Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Burke, Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Samuel, Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Burke and Casetta, Mr. and Mrs. Jewel Burke and Bruce, Toni and Denise, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Burke and sons, Mark and Ken all of DeAnn.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Mann of Arkadelphia, Mr. and Mrs. Billy McCollum, of Arkadelphia; Mrs. Stevel Hollaway and son, Scotty of Little Rock and Mrs. L. O. Krueger of Greeley, Col.

Miss Linda Thrash Honored

The V. R. Herndon home was turned into a Country Kitchen Monday night, July 22 for a kitchen shower honoring Miss Linda Thrash, bride-elect of Teddy M. Jones, Jr. Red and white checks were seen everywhere as the color scheme.

Miss Thrash wore a yellow frock, and instead of a corsage she was presented a white organdy apron trimmed with red and white gingham. To emphasize the kitchen theme, flowers were arranged in a skillet, a tea pot, a grease jar, and a watering can.

As the guests arrived, each was presented a tea towel and asked to embroider her name on it for the honoree. The prize for the best work went to Mrs. Dan Godbold, grandmother of the future bridegroom. The table of gifts was decorated with a white branch to which kitchen utensils had been tied. The many pretty and useful gifts included a cook book from the hostesses, Mrs. V. R. Herndon, Jr., Mrs. Jewel Moore, Jr., Mrs. Perry Moses, and Mrs. Cecil O'Steen.

Refreshments served to 35 included red and white checked sandwiches, cookies, and punch. Chocolate ice cream in a tiny flower pot with an artificial posy in it completed the theme.

Must File With State Secretary

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett ruled today that Act 176 of 1963, designed to give circuit judges greater control over so-called private clubs, does not require re-incorporation of private, non-profit corporations organized before the act took effect last March.

Bennett's opinion went to state Sen. Joe Hurley of El Dorado who asked for clarification of the act. Bennett said the law now requires that non-profit corporations file copies of their charters with the secretary of state where hereafter they have been required only to file with the circuit court but that the act did not specifically require re-incorporation of non-profit corporations and that charters could not be revoked by implication.

Bennett said about 2,000 non-profit corporations, most of which are not private clubs, would be affected by the law if it required re-incorporation.

JFK Plans to Take Steam Out of Talks

By JAMES MARLOW Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy says his plan for settling the railroad dispute is intended to avoid compulsory arbitration. But the net effect in large measure could wind up being compulsory arbitration.

Nevertheless, an examination of the plan indicates it's a thought-out device for taking much of the steam out of the four-year long argument between the railroads and the unions.

Kennedy asked Congress Monday to pass a resolution giving the 11-man Interstate Commerce Commission authority to go over the whole dispute and give rulings which would stay in effect for two years after they were made.

The ICC's authority would last two years from the day Congress passed the resolution.

During that time—if the unions or railroads didn't like a ruling and wanted to strike or shut down—the ICC could get a federal court injunction forbidding such action.

Briefly this is the background before looking at what Kennedy proposed.

The railroads argue that, thanks to modern improvements, they could operate $600 million a year cheaper if they weren't saddled by thousands of jobs they consider unnecessary.

For example, diesel engines have almost completely replaced steam locomotives. The railroads say that while firemen were needed on the steam locomotives, they are unnecessary on the diesels.

So they want to eliminate about 35,000 firemen's jobs, about 10,000 right away, the rest over the years through retirement or death or quitting. In addition, they want to eliminate about 30,000 other jobs over a period of time.

A presidential commission and a presidential board went along with the idea of eliminating jobs. The Supreme Court upheld the right of the railroads to do the eliminating.

The unions not only refused to agree, they threatened a strike if the railroads started job-cutting. They refused to let some outsider—an arbitrator—give a ruling that would be binding on unions and railroads.

Congress, to prevent a strike, could compel the two sides to accept arbitration. This would be compulsory arbitration. That's a dirty word with American management and labor, and Congress doesn't like it, either.

Still, Kennedy and Congress do not want a crippling strike. So Kennedy, to prevent it, came up with the device he suggested Monday. If Congress approves, there can be no strike for at least two years.

But, while it is supposed to avoid compulsory arbitration, this is how it would work:

As soon as Congress approves the resolution, as it probably will in some form, the ICC would be empowered to act in the case. It would have this authority for two years. Its main task would revolve around manpower and jobs.

The two sides could file applications for rulings. Once the ICC gave a ruling, it would stay in effect two years.

This could happen: Right near the end of its two-year term the ICC might give a ruling which would have to stay in effect for two years afterward. This means the ruling would be in effect four years after Congress passed the resolution.

This seems far-fetched. Almost surely it won't happen but this will: As soon as the ICC is empowered to act, the railroads will dump all their job problems in ICC's lap to get action fast.

The ICC is supposed to act within 120 days—or as soon thereafter as possible—after getting a request for a ruling.

If the ICC decided a number of firemen's jobs should be eliminated, then those jobs would be eliminated for two years. But right here it would seem from what

Market Jogs Up Slightly, Trading Dull

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market jogged ahead slightly in dull trading early this afternoon after 10 straight daily declines.

Brokers called the advance "unimpressive" and ascribed it to buying by traders who hoped to pick up some short-term profits.

motors, oils, steels, chemicals, utilities, aerospace issues, and a number of the volatile issues in the office equipment, photographic, and electronic fields were ahead.

As the possibility of a nationwide railroad strike once again drew closer, some Wall Streeters seemed to be standing pat.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .5 at 263.9 with industrials up 1.0, rails off .2, and utilities up .2.

The rails, although edging off slightly in the AP averages, seemed to be steadying at around

Kennedy said, the railroads might not be saving a lot of money.

From the way Kennedy phrased his message Monday it would appear that many whose jobs were abolished—or most of them—would be shifted to other jobs or retrained for others. The railroads would have to keep paying them for some time. So there wouldn't be big savings in a hurry.

Kennedy said, citing the opinions of the presidential commission and board: "No one would be thrown out on the street; and, while the railroads gradually modernized their operations, there would be little, if any, loss to individual employees."

It could be concluded from this suggestion that the ICC, right from the start, would not have a completely free hand in eliminating jobs.

At the same time an examination of Kennedy's message pretty clearly indicates the unions would have to accept the ICC's ruling since that commission could get a court injunction to prevent a strike.

At least the unions would have to accept the rulings for the two-year period after the ICC made them. In this sense the ICC rulings would be compulsory arbitration. What would happen after the ICC's two years of jurisdiction ended?

The unions and railroads would have to negotiate agreements. Supposedly, they'd have to be negotiating settlements all through the two years of ICC authority.

Then there's this: Suppose thousands of jobs had been eliminated by the ICC in that two-year time and men, if not fired, were moved into other jobs. At the end of the two years the unions wouldn't have much ground for striking against jobs eliminations that had been in effect two years.

All in all, this proposal would at least delay fireworks for two years.

A JINX TOOK OVER By HELEN WRDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: We are a bunch of teen-age girls who took your thought our party a big joke. We could understand if they didn't, advice about entertaining our boy friends in a group instead of solo dating. Three of the girls already had crushes on three of the boys and, the week before, had been together constantly at the last school dance of the season.

So everybody was very enthusiastic about the party; in fact the boys said they could hardly wait for it. It was great fun planning. Our parents helped too and we all looked forward to a wonderful time.

Everything went wrong the night of the party. We intended to have it in the garden but it rained so we had to shift to a house with a big living room where we could dance. That happened to be my best friend's house and her mother fussed because it meant moving the parlor furniture.

The boys sat in one corner of the room talking sports, the girls in the other talking boys. Finally a couple of the boys suggested twisting and we girls said fine. So we played our twist records but not a boy asked a girl to dance.

Then another boy said, "Play slow music." So we played slow records and still they sat there like bums on a log. Hardly a boy or girl said three words to each other the whole evening. When it came time to leave they just got up and stalked off without so much as a thank-you.

We girls sure felt bad. Now, when we meet those boys on the street, we hardly know what to say besides, "Hi! They must've like us but they gave the dis-

Cambridge Agreement Is Signed

WASHINGTON (AP) — White and Negro leaders from Cambridge, Md., today signed an agreement that Negroes will end racial demonstrations there indefinitely and the white community will take concrete steps to meet Negroes' desegregation demands.

The document, designed to end violence in the eastern shore fishing community, was signed at the Justice Department. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy signed as a witness. It followed more than eight hours of talks Monday night with Asst. Atty. Gen. Burke Marshall.

Cambridge Mayor Calvin W. Mowbray and City Atty. C. W. Thompson arrived today to join Negro leaders in signing the agreement. Cambridge officials had not been represented at Monday night's meeting.

Brig. Gen. George Gelston indicated that National Guard troops will remain in Cambridge for a while.

The four-page agreement listed these steps being taken in hopes of meeting Negro demands:

First, assurances that desegregation of the first four grades in the Dorchester County school system will be accomplished by the opening of the school year in September.

A Negro citizen has been retained as an interviewer with the state's Department of Employment Security in its Cambridge office.

The mayor and commissioners of Cambridge are applying to the Federal Housing Administration for a low-rent public housing project "which materially will benefit the Negro community."

The agreement also noted that Cambridge officials have appointed a biracial Human Relations Commission with four Negro members.

In return, the agreement said, "the representatives of the Negro citizens of the city of Cambridge hereby agree that there will be no form of protests or demonstrations for an indefinite period hereafter."

There's Nothing Quite Like a Vacation to Teach a Man His Place in the Office

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — There's nothing quite like a vacation to teach a fellow his place in the office.

It was Smythe's first day back after three weeks spent listening to his wife and building sand castles for the kiddies at good old Quagmire Cottages by-the-sea.

Smythe was the first man into the office. He went to the washroom, combed his hair, straightened his necktie, practiced in the mirror his gee but it's great to be back again grin.

Then he went to his desk, methodically tore off the pages necessary to bring his calendar up to date—and collapsed on his swivel chair, completely exhausted.

In the next hour, 37 fellow workers passed Smythe's paper-bare desk.

"Glad to see you back—been sick?" asked 25.

The other 12 made such remarks as:

"If I'd of known you'd of been out this long, I'd of sent you a get well card."

"What hospital were you in?"

"They must have kept you under a sun lamp a lot. You gotta nice tan there."

"How'd the nurse treat you?"

"After each remark—a nobody asked him about his vacation—Smythe made a lonely trip to the water cooler."

At 10 o'clock he went over to report to the chief accountant.

"I guess I better start catching up with the situation," said Smythe. "Who handled my work while I was gone?"

"What work?" inquired the chief accountant.

Smythe trudged back to his desk and busied himself neatly arranging the paper clips in the top drawer.

At noon he went to lunch with three old cronies. He pulled out some snapshots taken during his vacation, but nobody seemed interested in them.

After lunch Smythe re-sharpened his pencils until 3 o'clock when he received a surprise summons from the big boss.

Handing him a cigar, the big boss said:

"Smythe, you've been doing a splendid job for the firm the last few weeks, and I just want to let you know first-hand there'll be an extra 20 on your next paycheck."

"But, sir, I've been on vacation for the last three weeks."

"Aren't you Ed Smythe from sales?"

"No, sir, I'm Jim Smythe in accounting."

The big boss reached out, plucked back his cigar and said, "My mistake, Smythe. But remember, no matter what department you're in—keep up the good work."

Upon leaving the office Smythe walked alone to his favorite tavern.

"Well, well, well—welcome back, Mr. Smythe," said the bartender. "Sure did miss you. Did you have a nice vacation?"

Smythe leaned his forehead on the shiny mahogany bar and broke into tears. He was very, very late getting home that night.

Uncertain Reception on Treaty

By LEWIS GULICK

WASHINGTON (AP)—An uncertain reception in the Senate awaits a nuclear test-ban treaty which U.S. sources say is all but completed in Moscow.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk and disarmament agency director William C. Foster sought to blaze a path for the treaty Tuesday by showing a draft of the proposed agreement to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Afterward committee Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., said it was possible the Senate would approve it this session but declined to go so far as to predict that would happen.

Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois would predict only that the treaty would set off lively debate. He said he would not know until he had seen all of the provisions whether he would oppose it or not.

Informed sources said American, British, and Soviet negotiators had virtually completed their work on the test-ban pact and were preparing to issue a final communiqué soon, perhaps later today.

Signing of the treaty would send it to the Senate, which must ratify it by a two-thirds vote before it becomes binding upon the United States.

After the briefing by Rusk and Foster, Fulbright made these points to newsmen:

1. No committee member opposed the limited test ban during the closed session, but no member had committed himself to support the treaty, nor had Rusk requested this.

2. The test ban "is not yet final." U.S. negotiator W. Averell Harriman has yet to initial it—certifying what the negotiators agreed to—and then it must be brought to Washington for governmental consideration before formal signing.

3. After Harriman initials the agreement, the committee expects to have an opportunity to study it for some days before the signing.

4. Then—if the consultations with the senators and among interested Washington federal agencies favor the draft—arrangements will be completed for a formal signing.

Taylor Simply Blends Into Background

EDITORS NOTE—Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, formerly a controversial figure in defense policy battles, has quietly blended into the background as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. From personal observation and almost a dozen interviews, AP military affairs writer Fred S. Hoffman presents this report on how Taylor is doing in his second hitch as the country's chief military man.

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, once a firebrand in defense policy battles, has packed away his "Uncertain Trumpet" and deliberately blended into the Pentagon background.

In the year since President Kennedy chose him as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Taylor has kept away from the public eye while developing his chosen role—that of a bridge between the professional military and the civilian authority.

He has purposefully subordinated himself as Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's chief military adviser.

From all available evidence, Taylor has avoided trying to keep open any special channel to the White House where he served as Kennedy's personal military adviser before the President elevated him to JCS chairman.

But he retains undiminished stature at the White House where the multilingual soldier-scholar is accepted as an intellectual equal.

Those in position to know say McNamara and Taylor make a good team. Both are strong-willed men of firm opinions. They have differed, and will again, but there is mutual respect.

There is respect, too, between combat-veteran Taylor and the other military chiefs—but the Air Force and Navy feel the JCS chairman still has too much of an Army point of view.

On a number of key issues, Taylor has disagreed with all the service chiefs—Gen. Early C. Wheeler, Army chief of staff and a protégé, as well as Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, Air Force chief of staff, and Adm. George W. Anderson, soon to leave as chief of naval operations.

These disagreements have been marked by an absence of personal conflict.

A year ago, there were all sorts of predictions that Taylor would clash heatedly and repeatedly with LeMay and possibly Anderson.

This was because of Taylor's background of strong partisanship for Army views and his record of conflict particularly with the Air Force in the days when he was Army chief of staff during the Eisenhower administration.

People remembered the stands he took in the "Uncertain Trumpet," a book he published after retiring as Army chief in 1953.

The book was a blast at Eisenhower administration defense policy, particularly reliance on massive nuclear retaliation and what Taylor considered neglect of conventional forces, especially the Army.

It should be noted that much of what Taylor has advocated in his book already had been adopted as policy by McNamara and his new civilian leadership before Taylor returned to the Pentagon last Oct. 1.

The slim, frosty-eyed general who jumped into Normandy during World War II with his 101st Airborne Division and who commanded the 8th Army in Korea has seen his doctrine of flexible response become the order of the day.

By flexible response, Taylor meant the ability to deal with any kind of military threat from subversion and guerrilla warfare to all-out nuclear war.

Taylor's influence remains undeniably strong in the executive offices. He has had a leading part in formulating policy on aid to Communist-threatened India, on the war in South Viet Nam, on

Rail Strike Could Hurt Arkansas

By WICK TEMPLE

Associated Press Staff Writer

A lengthy nationwide railroad strike could cripple Arkansas industries and put the pocketbook bite on the Arkansas consumer.

Figures from the state Chamber of Commerce reflecting the status of railroads in the state as of Jan. 1, 1961, show that the five major railroads employ 9,081 Arkansians with a total annual payroll of $47,983,945.

The real danger of a railroad strike would be the crushing chain reaction it would set off in other industries.

Employers could not get raw materials for manufacturing, so employees would be laid off. Costly truck service for shipments from producer to warehouses would send retail prices soaring. For want of transportation to market crops would spoil.

Harold Snyder, president of Arkansas Valley Industries, Inc., of Dardanelle, said the poultry industry "could last about a week" as a host of other problems.

During the Cuban crisis—which broke out only two weeks after Taylor moved into the JCS chairman's post—the general was picked by Kennedy for service on the "Ex Com," a top level group which charted U.S. moves that ultimately led to the Soviet Union's backdown.

If a rail strike occurred, The devastating blow would be in raw ingredients for feed mills, he said. Only a week's supply can be stored.

Snyder estimated that 10,000 families depend directly on the poultry industry for their livelihood, and many employees might be laid off.

Poultry shipping would have to switch to trucks and "we couldn't afford that for very long," Snyder said. He said the result would be dead chickens in the hands of growers.

Most poultry products are shipped by truck, so that phase would be relatively untouched, he said.

Maurice Dyer, transportation manager of the Little Rock Chamber of Commerce, said grocery stores would have to increase their prices if forced to switch to trucks to get goods from producers to warehouses. Trucks already are used to take them from warehouses to retailers.

Other industries that would suffer include lumber, petroleum, chemical, mining, foundry, aluminum, cement, sand and gravel—an almost endless list.

Major construction including highway building—would come to a halt for lack of raw materials.

Arkansas' peach crop would be hit hard now, but rice, soybeans and cotton would not need shipping urgently until the fall.

The five major railroads in Arkansas are the Missouri Pacific, Cotton Belt, Frisco, Rock Island and Kansas City Southern. They run 147 freight and 36 passenger trains into the state each day.

In 1960, railroads—a total of 30 operate in Arkansas—spent $17,149,000 for supplies and services in Arkansas and paid $3,530,391 in state taxes.

Buildings Get Top Priority

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Little Rock School Board decided Monday night—after the issue apparently was settled — that the school district's building needs take priority over teachers' salaries.

The board voted to continue with a plan to ask voter approval of a $4.2 million construction bond issue in the Sept. 24 school election.

The Little Rock Classroom Teachers Association had protested the plan, saying teachers' salaries had priority on tax millage. Representatives of the board and the association met privately for about two hours before the board meeting.

Under the present plan the present rate of 45 mills would be continued to pay for $4.2 million construction bond issue. The rate now is paying off bonds that will be retired this year.

Head-on Wreck Fatal to Man

NORTH LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Samuel Jerome Justice, 56, of North Little Rock, was killed Monday in a head-on collision on a curve of U.S. Highway 65 near the desolated to avoid being hit by Rock.

Arthur Landers, 29, of Springdale, driver of the other vehicle, was injured slightly.

Police Sgt. Maurice Gateley said Justice was driving a loaded dump truck toward North Little Rock and that Landers was driving an empty trailer truck north.

GP Sales Hit a New Record

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Georgia-Pacific Corp. said Monday the first half of 1963 was its most successful period on record.

The firm's Pacific Northwest plants were shut down last week in a union contract dispute that has idled 25,000 employees of seven companies.

Georgia-Pacific, a major manufacturer of wood products, reported new records in sales, net earnings and cash flow.

Sales for the half-year were $225,025,000, up 33.1 per cent from the same period of last year. Net earnings were $13,380,000, up 14 per cent.

Dyersaid he does not believe a rail strike can last long—possibly two days to a week.

"If it goes beyond that, the economy is in trouble," he said. "This is the kind of thing this country just can't let happen," Snyder said.

Actors Are Different, Same Theme

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — The actors are different but the theme of the play is the same.

Nikita Khrushchev's historic split with Mao Tse-tun duplicates in a basic way Joseph Stalin's split with Leon Trotsky. Khrushchev has even obliquely called Mao, the Red Chinese leader, his own Trotsky.

In both cases the dispute was over when to be fierce. Stalin and Khrushchev decided on restraint, not because they lacked Communist zeal but because the odds were against them.

There was even a parallel between what Stalin did through a party congress to get support against his rival, Trotsky, and what Khrushchev is doing now. He has called for Wednesday a summit meeting of friendly Communist leaders. There is no question they will back him against Mao.

The Russian Communists had early assumed the success of their revolution depended in similar revolutions by Communists elsewhere around them. The revolutions didn't happen.

In the mid-1920s, with Lenin out of the way and his heirs cannibalizing one another, Russia was faced with Western forces too powerful to be attacked and perhaps too powerful to be withstood if they invaded.

Stalin decided he had better put the Russian house in order before taking chances: this meant building up Russian industry, which would be the backbone of an army, and just trying to make the revolution in Russia work first.

Thus the slogan of the Stalinist: socialism in one country. Romantic Trotsky, a big idea man but too haughty to be a good administrator, didn't buy the Stalin theory of one revolution at a time and at home. He wanted to export it to Russia's neighbors. It was his idea of "permanent revolution."

But Stalin, who had been building up his own political machine in Lenin's lifetime, was supported by the Russian Communist party congress in 1925 which passed a resolution calling for building communism in Russia first.

Trotsky was thrown out of the party and out of Russia. He was assassinated later in Mexico. It was Stalin's industrialization which enabled Russia to stand up to the attack from Hitler when it came in 1940.

That Stalin never lost his revolutionary zeal — his desire to spread communism — was demonstrated during that war and after when he took over the satellites in Eastern Europe, and in the Korean war.

Red China in a very real sense is like Russia of the mid-1920s: a primitive Communist country (compared with the affluence of modern Russia) where the leaders (unlike those now in Russia) are still those who led the revolution.

But while Russia is now the opposite of Russia in Stalin's time — being one of the two most powerful military forces in the world — it is still in an ironic way in a position similar to the one Stalin faced.

A nuclear war between the United States and Russia would hardly mean victory for either side but almost certainly would mean the annihilation of Russia and all the effort of 46 years of communism.

The Red Chinese, having no nuclear weapons, might be spared.

Drainage Dispute Before Court

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A dispute between two Craighead County farmers over a drainage ditch reached the Arkansas Supreme Court today.

Craighead Chancellor Terry Shell ruled that neither of the principals, D. O. Graves and James P. Wimpy, was entitled to damages and Glaze appealed.

Graves contends the ditch was dug by Wimpy and caused an overflow on his land, resulting in damage to his rice crop.

Wimpy said in answering the complaint that the ditch was dug by both men in 1954, partially re-dug by Graves in 1955, completely re-dug by Graves in 1958 and dammed by Graves in 1962. He said construction of the dam damaged his land to the extent of $1,000.

Shell denied all damage claims and assessed the cost of the suit to Graves, the original plaintiff.

Phone Firm Gets Sheridan Aid

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Allied Telephone Co., received the support of the city of Sheridan before the Public Service Commission Monday in a battle with Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., over an unattended long distance dial service system.

Bell says the fully automatic system would violate a contract Allied has with Bell. Allied has interconnected long distance service with the Bell system.

The Sheridan City Council adopted a resolution July 2 in which it said the Allied plan would be of benefit to Sheridan.

If so it would emerge the world's No. 1 nation and the undisputed base of communism. Khrushchev, like Stalin, thinks the odds are too big to take a chance.

The Maoists, like Trotsky, talk of permanent revolution. Khrushchev talks of peaceful coexistence. He hasn't lost the desire to see the world Communist. He just says communism now must be achieved without war.

The world can hardly doubt that any time Khrushchev, like Stalin, sees a chance to push his luck he'll try it. But the Red Chinese denounce Khrushchev as a betrayer of Leninism.

This is an old story in the Communist world and it neatly overlooks the fact that Lenin was a very flexible man, just as Khrushchev is, when it was necessary to adapt himself to realities.

Back in the 1940s Frederick L. Schuman summed up the endless Communist disputes over the true discipleship of Marx and Lenin.

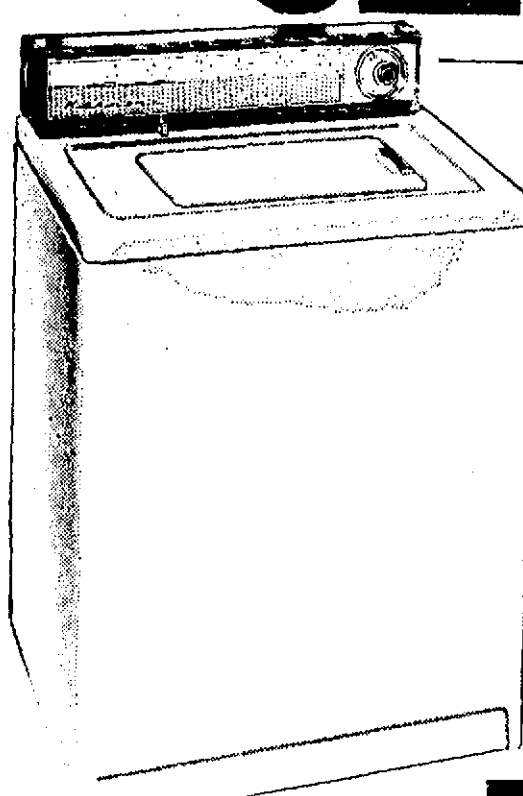

In his "Soviet Politics at Home and Abroad," he said: "In almost all Western theories, disputants traditionally belabor one another with selected excerpts from Holy Writ. Marxism and Leninism are no exception. Marx denied he was a Marxist and Lenin, though often quoting Marx to carry his argument, was not a dogmatist."

And recently Donald S. Zagoria, in his "The Sino-Soviet Conflict," said: "What is now referred to in the Chinese press as the 'Mac-

Tse-tung ideology,' is a peculiar blend of Marxism, Stalinism, Trotskyism, and pragmatism, based on a number of conditioning social and economic factors never or no longer relevant in the Soviet Union."

Yankees Roll on, Lead Is Extended to 9

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The battle may be over for top spot in the American League—but that's quite a skirmish going on for second place.

There are no less than four teams in a virtual deadlock for the runner-up spot behind New York's surging Yankees, whose latest drive has carried them a whopping nine games ahead of the pack.

Here's how the also-rans in the first division stand — Boston is second, one percentage point ahead of Chicago and Minnesota and three in front of Baltimore.

All but the Orioles lost ground Tuesday night. Diego Segui posted his first shutout in the majors, pitching Kansas City over the Red Sox 1-0. Detroit took the White Sox twice, 5-1 on Norm Cash's eighth-inning grand slam and 6-4. Tito Francona's homer in the 13th gave Cleveland and Jim (Mudcat) Grant a 3-2 victory over the Twins ending the Indians' losing string at nine games. The Orioles blanked Washington 4-0 behind left-hander Steve Barber.

The Yankees? They won again, naturally, riding John Blanchard's home run slugging and the shut-out pitching of Stan Williams and Steve Hamilton to a 7-0 romp over the Los Angeles Angels.

The Los Angeles Dodgers maintained their six-game lead in the National League, whipping Pittsburgh 6-0. St. Louis' second-place Cardinals beat Milwaukee 5-1. San Francisco clouted the New York Mets 9-1. Cincinnati edged the Chicago Cubs 1-0 on Jim Maloney's one-hit pitching; and Houston nipped Philadelphia 6-5 in 15 innings.

Blanchard, the reserve outfielder filling in for the ailing Roger Maris, kept up his heavy hitting with a pair of homers for the Yanks, who clinched it with a six-run cluster in the fifth inning against the Angels.

Hamilton, relieving Williams in the eighth with the bases filled, killed that threat by striking out three men in a row and completed the shutout by getting out of another bases-loaded situation in the ninth. Paul Foytack was the loser.

Segui's breaking pitches and low fastballs checked the Red Sox and brought the right-hander his fifth victory in his last six decisions.

In addition to his clinching grand slam in the opener, Cash belted another homer in the second game as the Tigers swept the White Sox and finished the double-header with four hits. His four-run homer came after Detroit had loaded the bases in the eighth with two out and gave the pitching victory to Hank Aguirre, who scattered 11 hits.

Al Kaline had three singles and three runs batted across in the second game, won by Bob Anderson over Dave DeBusschere.

Man Charged in Fatal Stabbing

MALVERN, Ark. (AP) — J. C. Cook, 28, of Malvern, was charged Monday with second-degree murder in the fatal stabbing Saturday of his uncle, Joe Cook, 63, of Malvern. Both men are Negroes.

Sheriff Milburn Gill of Hot Spring County said J. C. Cook was held under $1,500 bond.

To Rule on Bank Window at Monette

By JOHN R. STARR

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A suit to determine whether the Monette State Bank has a right to operate a teller window at Caraway will be tried in Pulaski Circuit Court starting Monday.

The bank filed the suit against Bank Commissioner Dick Simpson who, it said, is about to invoke Act 544 of 1963 to force the bank to close the window.

Act 544, passed after considerable controversy, requires the closing of a teller window operated by an out-of-city bank whenever a local bank is organized in the community.

The Caraway situation resulted from formation of the Caraway State Bank.

Attorneys for the Monette State Bank contend that Act 544 was not legally passed because a motion to expunge the vote by which it was tabled actually received only 65 votes when it required 67. The suit says the vote of Speaker Mation Crank and a "pair" vote by Rep. Ben Allen of Pulaski County should not have been counted.

A "pair" vote is one cast by a representative who is not present in the chamber. Legality of such votes has been questioned through the years but the House continues to count them.

The Monette Bank's suit contends that its teller window at Caraway is legalized by Section 4 of Act 190 of 1961 which is a so-called grandfather clause protecting teller windows in existence at the time of passage of the act. Section 4 is somewhat vague and Act 544 was designed to clarify it.

Act 544 was passed over the objection of Craighead County Rep. Norman Wimpy who was successful at first in getting the bill tabled, but it was revived and passed under strong administration pressure late in the session.

There are several other teller windows which could be affected by Act 544 if local banks are chartered in the communities in which they are located.

Reports Record Industrial Sales

DARDANELLE, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas Valley Industries, Inc., of Dardanelle reported Monday record sales of $18,617,879 and net earnings of $144,120 during the three months ending June 29.

AVI President Harold Snyder said that amounted to 31 cents per share of stock, a decline from 99 cents a share during the same quarter last year.

Foreign Aid Bill Again Slashed

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee voted today to cut another $105 million from the administration's $4.5 billion foreign aid program and to require at least 2 per cent interest on all loans under the program.

The committee also adopted an amendment by Sen. Frank

KICK OUT—Ralph Houk not only is kicking up a dust storm at Yankee Stadium home plate, he is kicking himself right out of the game. The New York manager was ejected by umpire John Rice after he protested what he thought was a quick pitch by Washington pitcher Jim Coates to Clete Boyer, left. The will left only the proceeds of a $25,155 insurance policy to the widow and she elected to seek a larger share by contesting the will.

The main argument the Supreme Court will be asked to decide is whether the widow is entitled to a share of $60,000 worth of life insurance which Clements willed to several nieces and nephews.

Smith held that none of the insurance proceeds should be considered part of the estate since Clements had, by specifically willing the proceeds, in effect, changed the beneficiaries.

Chiefs Nick Arkansas in the 9th

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — The Syracuse Chiefs nicked Arkansas 6-5 in International League baseball Tuesday night when Johnny Sullivan rapped a double in the bottom of the ninth to break a tie.

Sullivan had helped power the Chiefs to an eighth inning, 5-3 lead with a homer and double.

In other league play Columbus downed Indianapolis 4-0. Richmond beat Buffalo 6-2. Jacksonville whipped Rochester 4-3 and Toronto shut out Atlanta 4-0.

Mickey Harrington homered in the top of the ninth, Lee Ella and Richie Allen singled before reliever Wyman Carey walked Bob Lipski to load the bases.

Norman Gigon slammed a sacrifice line drive to center field that brought in Ella with the tying run.

Sullivan's blow came after Dwight Siebler, the fourth pitcher used by Arkansas, downed two men in the last of the ninth.
